

For my final project, I will be remodeling the Thelonious Monk Official Website, currently located at www.monkzone.com. The overall tone of this site will be sleek and artistic as it tries to replicate the smoothness of Thelonious Monk's music and vibe. To do this, I will use sleek fonts, fairly simple designs and a color palette of primarily black and white, complemented by both bright and moody accent colors. I believe this is the best approach because the target audience of this site is jazz listeners- which today is either an older crowd or an artsy, hip crowd; using sleek designs and highly contrasting colors will make this site accessible to both crowds while also hopefully channeling the essence of jazz itself and not being too outdated.

COLORS

- Yellow, black, & white are the primary colors. Other pops of color will come from the background images and other images as well.

FONTS

- Headers and other important text use "StyleThief," imported in from fontspace.com
- Minor/accent text uses "Noto Sans"

MOUSEOVER/HOVER/ACTIVE/FOCUS STATES

- On the discography page, albums and their titles will enlarge and the font will transform upon hover
- Actively linked elements will show a cursor on hover

MENUS/FORMS/GALLERY ITEMS

- On the discography page, albums will be displayed as an item with their titles underneath
- The navigation menu will be in the upper right corner, represented by icons: bibliography, discography, and photo gallery. Only the discography is a complete linked page.
- Clicking on the top header will return you to the homepage, and the top left of header has a Wikipedia and Spotify link
